Royal Rangers International

Just as Jabez, in the Old Testament, Kerry and I have consistently asked God to increase our sphere of ministry influence. Well, he has!

Praise report: In mid 2001, Kerry and I were asked by John Bueno, Executive Director of AGWM, and Richard Marriot, U.S. National Royal Rangers Commander, to consider creating and directing Royal Rangers International. After seeking the Lord for wisdom, Kerry and I have agreed to walk through this door of opportunity. In addition to ministering in Latin America and the Caribbean, we look forward to equipping men in Africa, Asia Pacific, Eurasia, Europe, and Northern Asia, to reach, teach and keep boys for Christ. We assumed these additional responsibilities in June 2002.

Growth opportunity: The challenge ahead is awesome—Kerry and I will need your prayers. The challenge involves: 1) Preparing culturally relevant curriculum; 2) Creating, or enhancing, training standards; 3) Establishing strategic training centers around the world (similar to Camp Summit, in Costa Rica); and 4) Cultivating an environment in which ministries to men and boys can thrive in each region of the world. Pray that God will strengthen existing leadership and raise-up additional leaders around the world. Royal Rangers will grow in direct proportion to our ability to grow leaders.

Doug feeds a hungry boy in Malawi.

In light of these new responsibilities, Kerry and I implore you to hold us up before the throne regularly. We need wisdom and favor as we take on this worldwide challenge. Together we are partners determining the destiny of nations.

Doug was the keynote speaker at the first nationwide Commanders Conference in Russia.
